because it was in his line as a Minister of the Goopel, and he would endeavor to make it interesting shot instructive to his hearers. The written evidences of the truth of Christianity were very voluminous and axtended back through many ages. Scientists and Philosophers had attacked the validity of these historic evidences, had even claimed that so far as the New Yorkanent was concerned, the books had been written by the monks hundreds of years after the recorded events had taken place, and yet, he said, if the specialistion of the so called Scientists had a fiftieth part of the evidence that history of the creation, they would be worthy of far more consideration.

Science, said the Reverend gentle man, despite the scientists, has revealed many things unknown to the early defender of the Bible and yet confirmatory of their views. Fortinately, too, travelences that have been buried out of sight for thousands of years and therefore incapable of being manipulated by man.

Bishop Bowman then took up the subject of Geology, tracing the steps by which it had been developed into a cience out of which mon were gathering more and more knowledge concerning the structure of the earth. During the progress of the growth of this science men had written works to prove a conflict between religion and science, but they have only succeeded in demonstrating a condito between religion and science, but they have cates, religious and scientific. He said it was of interest to discuss whether there really was any conflict between religion. Science is yet in its infancy and accented in the science, resome of the Principles he would discuss whether there really was a so condition between the theorem on as to accord with later developements. While we must, said he, be very carpol as to what we call science, yet some of the Principles he would discuss whether there really was a so

A BOLD ATTEMPT AT ROBBERY.—A bold attempt was made to rob the residence of Mr. Wm. Clark, who resides a short distance above Martio's Ferry, about 3 o'clock yesterday morning. At the hour mentioned Mr. Clark was aroused by a slight noise down stairs, but paid very little attention to it, not supposing there was anything wrong about the premises. He was therefore much surprised, and not a little frightened, when two masked men entered his room, the deceitfulness of appearances is nowhere better illustrated than by a compirion of the ages with the looks of beastors. Edmunds looks to be a hundred years old—the oldest appearing man in the "Senste—yet forty-two, or more than half of his associates, are old—tr than he. Voorhees, who is the same age; Ferry, who is one year older; Booth, Hortford and Chaffee, who are three years older, all look young enough to be Edmunds' sons. Morrill, who is nearly twenty years older than Edmunds, looks wenty years younger as he sits beside him.

theories and make foolish interpretations. So do Scientista. The Bishop here gave a familiar example in the common pump before Science had recognized the influence of the pressure of the atmosphere. Scientists then accounted for the rising of the water upon the theory that Nature abhorred a vaccuum.

The reverend gentleman said that Science in general and Geology in particular has not up to this time conflicted with Mosea in his account of the creation. His account of the creation was but a brief introduction to a book designed to teach teligion. He did not attempt to tell how it was created. The term 'created out of nothing' occurs but three times in the Bible, and seems to be better interpreted by the Apoule Paul when he said, "Things which are seen were made

HOUSE.

Mr. Whithfore introduced a bill providing that the Naval authorities shall remove the bodies of the officers and men lost in the wreck of the Huron for burial in the Naval Cemetery at Annapolis, and reimbursing their relatives for expenses incurred in removing the bodies from the coast of North Carolina. The bill was so amended as to include the relatives of those men lost from the wrecking boat B. and I. Baker. The bill then passed.

tee on Appropriations intimated a desire to offer some amendments, but subsequently declined, in order not to embarrase the fill.

The House then considered the follow-
